Recession Is Here But Not So Much In North Texas

One North Texas Economist it's time we stopped talking about a recession and instead admit we're actually in one.

However UNT's Dr. Bud Weinstein says the best place to ride out these bad economic times is right here in the Metroplex. Dr. Weinstein says we will not be affected nearly as much as other parts of the country. He says we will see a slow down but not a full blown recession.

What's in our favor Weinstein says is that North Texas has added 300 thousand jobs since 2004. He adds a lot of businesses are relocating and expanding here plus we've got a strong commercial real estate sector and have seen a pickup in defense spending.
